STAGE PISTOL BATTLE TODAY IN FAIRFAX

Federal Prohibition Agents and Occupants of Suspected Car

NO ONE INJURED

Car Suspected of Having Whiskey Aboard Gets Away—Several Shots Are Fired From Pistols and Rifles

Federal prohibition agents and occuants of a car suspected of being a whiskey car at noon today engaged in a gun battle in Fairfax county near Spring Bank farm about three miles south of Alexandria.

The prohibition officers were out in search of stills when they ran across the big tourng car. Richard Lyons of this city was driving the car of the federal officers who were accompanied by Policemen Durrer and Magner, and according to reports reaching this city concerning the affair the car under surveillance apparently became ditched and the federal officers got within about thirty feet of the car. Much to the amazement of the officials the driver of the car suspected got under way and the federal officers it is reported opened fire, being aparently unable to overtake the car. Someone in the car suspected of being the whiskey car opened fire and for several minutes there was a big gun battle as both machines sped on the prohibtion officials using both rifles and pistols it was reported. Anyhow no one was killed or injured and the federal officials after returning to Alexandria subsequently went into Fairfax county to again search for the suspected car.

BOUQUET TO GAZETTE

New York City, Nov. 26, 1921.
Editor Alexandria Gazette,
Alexandria, Va.
Dear Sir:

If the copy of The Gazette before us is representative of the paper you are turning out daily, your readers have much to be thankful for. Your paper appears to carry a wholesome amount of local news—and a pleasing scarcity of "boilerplate." And that the space-buyers in your community are appreciative of the value of The Gazette as an advertising medium seems to be attested to by the good showing of paid-for matter appearing in your columns.

From time to time, we should like to see other copies of your paper.

Yours very truly,

BIG MUSICAL EVENT

Old Folks Concert Next Monday Night By St. Paul's Choir

The Old Folks' Concert to be given next Monday evening in the Memorial Hall by the choir of St. Paul's Church will be the musical event of the season. All the "Tunemakers" who will take part are well known to the musical public of Alexandria and the resumption of these annual concerts is looked forward to with great interest. Tickets are on sale at the Rexall, Timberman's, Warfield's and Gibson's drug stores, and can be obtained also from members of the choir and at the door the evening of the concert.

Friends A. C. Wins

The Armory Hall was the scene of a fast and exciting basketball game when the Friends A C. played the George Mason High and won by the score of 23 to 11.

The High School girls showed vast improvement of their first appearance and fought hard from the start until the finish to head off the Friends who showed lack of practice, but managed to get together and win out with a good margin.

Misses Warren and Whalen, played well at forward for the High School girls. Misses Michelbach, Spencer, Loune and Revely covered their positions well Misses Ford, Jones, Cockrell and Massey for the Friends had the High School lassies guessing by their clever passing. Misses Bennett and Crump at forward played hard, the last named scoring 19 points out of the 23 scored by the Friends caging the ball at various angles and showed rare ability.

Mr. James Alexander, has volunteered to coach the Friends and vast improvement is expected.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Dec. 8.—Both the Dail Eireann and the British Parliament should at once arise to the situation and ratify the Irish agreement in the opinion of most members of the Senate and House today who were happy at what appears to be the final settlement of the question of Irish independence.

There never has been a question but that the sentiment of both Houses has been overwhelmingly in favor of a solution of the Irish question that would give the Irish people their freedom and this sentiment has been expressed in times past by the adoption of resolutions of a necessarily guarded verbiage declaring in favor of a settlement. Diplomatic niceties have always kept Congress from expressing itself too freely on Irish questions and the administration, anxious for the most amicable relations with the British Empire, has always soft pedaled on Irish resolutions in Congress. But there is no doubt that nearly all members believe the present Irish agreement offers the happiest possible solution of the long drawn out controversy.

Japan according to information received today by the Gazette correspondent, is standing behind Great Britain in its insistence that the submarine fleets of the maritime nations of the world shall be reduced to the very minimum consistent with self preservation.

Japan's position, according to the information supplied the Gazette correspondent is that, failure to receive its demands for a 7-7-10 ratio on battleships of the first class, it is willing to sacrifice its contention if Great Britain will concede that it is entitled to the same ratio of submarines—90-90—for the United States and Great Britain, instead of a ratio of 45 per cent. as given to Japan under the Hughes plan of naval disarmament. As a matter of fact, Japan is not yielding to this concession upon humanitarian grounds. Her government realizes, it is said that if she does not agree to the quota on battleships her nation will be completely isolated from other governments not only in a financial both in other ways. Japan, her leading delegates argue, could ill afford to give up the position which she holds among the powerful nations of the world today simply by refusing to "scrap" one or more battleships which the program of the United States, endorsed by a world-wide sentiment, argues.

Despite the reports that the members of the Chinese government to the arms conference are on the point of resigning and will shortly quit the meetings of the conference, inquiry among the delegates assembled does not verify any such rumor. There is no doubt that the great body of students and political representatives in the North of China is opposed to the apparent inactivity of the Chinese delegates assembled at the conference room in Washington. On the other hand, advisers, both Chinese and American know that the present conference so far as its Far Eastern section is concerned, is aimed at a rejuvenation of the Chinese Republic and that sentiment of the Oriental Republic, outside of a class of radicals, will endorse everything that the present conference has proposed and adopted. China, and her representatives to the present arms conference, it is declared, have become entirely too excited about rsults. China has been absolutely unable to take care of its own interests and has been compelled to call upon foreign assistance, both by treaty and concession to carry on its government. It seems to be a bit unfriendly, to say the least, for the representatives of that government now in Washington to expect everything and give nothing.

Second-day examination of the various recommendations of the President for legislation to be enacted at this session of Congress reveals that the President has advanced such a progressive program that it will take many months to act on all of his suggestions and that some of them will encounter opposition which may prevent their enactment into law at any time.

Probably the most striking recommendation of the President was that referring to the settlement of labor difficulties by some kind of a tribunal and the necessity of the recognition of the prior rights of the public in such disputes. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, already, has taken exception to such a suggestion. But there will be a contest between capital and labor as to the policy enunciated by the Chief Executive of the Nation and the fight will be waged with great fury between now and the Congerssional elections next November.

TWO ARE HELD FOR GRAND JURY AFTER RAIDS

One Out of Three Arraigned Today Is Acquitted

MEN FURNISH BOND

Edward Waters and Samuel Petitt Held For Court and Thomas Buckley Released

Following a preliminary hearing this morning before U. S. Commissioner W. P. Woolls, Edward Waters was held for the action of the federal grand jury which meets here in January on a charge of an alleged violation of the national prohibition law. Waters furnished a bond in the sum of $2,000 and was released from custody.

Thomas Buckley, who was arrested at the time Waters was, was acquitted by the Commissioner following the investigation.

Both men were taken in custody yesterday afternoon in Alexandria after a raid had been made on a farm at Lincolnia, Fairfax county, six miles west of Alexandria, by federal agents assisted by the police. Two stills and about 450 gallons of mash were found, the mash being destroyed.

Samuel Petitt who also lives in Fairfax county, at whose place the raiders late yesterday afternoon found a still of about fifteen gallons capacity and an oil stove, was also arraigned before the commissioner for an alleged infraciton of the prohibition law. He was held for the action of the grand jury today by Commissoner Woolls and he was released on furnishing a bail bond in the sum of $1,000.

The federal prohibition agents are still in Alexandria and expect that some more stills soon will be captured by them.

RIOTING IN CHICAGO

Several Hundred Injured

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Serious rioting broke out in the stockyards district here late today when striking packing house employes mobbed strikebreakers.

Thousands of women were among the crowd that surged about the entrances, and scores were hit by missiles. During one phase of the riot the women joined hostilities with the men and threw red pepper into the eyes of the horses of the mounted police.

Reports from the stockyards were that packer officials were installing thousands of army cots within the yards in an effort shelter their new employes inside.

Riot calls were sent to several police stations and hundreds of reserves, mounted and motorcycle police, in addition to every other available officer, were hurried to the district.

Nine men were shot, hundreds injured seriously by flying bricks and stones, and more than 100 less seriously hurt in the early fighting between 500 strikers and strikebreakers at Racine avenue and Forty-ninth street near one of the stockyards entrances. Two policemen were sent to hospitals, one shot and the other probably fatally injured by a brick which struck him on the head. All available ambulances were hurried to the scene.

While the police were fighting with the enraged strikers at this point other riots were starting at Racing Avenue and Forty-seventh street, and on the same avenue at Thirty-eight street.

Chief of Police Fintzmorris then took charge of the situation and called out flying squadrons of police in automobiles, and armed them with heavy rifles. Bricks were thrown and shots fired at the police from windows and alleys. Street lights were shot out, and the fighting proceeded in the dark in some places.

Many merchants closed their stores in the district, and all pedestrians were warned to keep off the streets.

So many were injured in the fighting that the police have had no chance to check up on the total number, or even the names of their own casualties.

It was estimated that more than 1,000 strikers were fighting the police and the strikebreakers.

The riot started when the day shifts from the yards attempted to come off duty through the four entrances on Racine avenue.

Petersburg—O. B. Mcnight, a negro automobile expressman, was shot to death Monday night by Special Agent Harry Sweet, Sr., of the Seaboard Air Line railroad and former state prohibition enforcement officer. The negro was killed in a box car, which it is alleged he was robbing. Sw[illegible] was released by Coroner Ritchie on his own recognizance until the inquest today.

THE PHYSICAL WELFARE OF THE CHILD

An Address Delivered Before Alabama State Teachers' Association by Mary D. Pierce, Supervisor Alexandria Public Schools.

The mere appearance of this topic upon the program of a kindergarten-primary section of an educational association is in itself significant of the emphasis that is coming to be placed upon health and physical education.

1. Why Such Emphasis? Why within the past five years have sixteen states passed special health laws and four others have such laws at present pending in their legislatures? The reasons are many.

The large percentage of our boys found to be unfit for military service gave us something of a shock, more than one-third in Alabama having been found to be below standard. The epidemics of influenza and other diseases following in the wake of war have forced upon us the realization of the necessity of preventive and precautionary measures. Reports of medical inspections of school children have shown us that at least 50 per cent. of the school children of the United States are seriously physically defective. The findings of health surveys of various kinds are revealing conditions of which we were unaware. In Alabama, for instance, it was found that approximately an average of one-fourth of the population are sick all the time.

The economic cost of this condition of affairs is tremendous. To quote from "An Educational Study of Alabama" published by the Federal Bureau of Education:

"A recent health survey of the state revealed the fact that an average of approximately one-quarter of all the people are sick all the time. More than a third of the young men examined for admission to the army were found unfit for full military service. These facts indicate a very large and unnecessary amount of suffering and an equally great loss in productive power. Men unfit for military service are also, to an extent at least, unfit for productive labor. If 500,000 people are sick all the time, as revealed by the health survey referred to, we have some basis for a rough calculation of the cost. Let us suppose only one-half of these are of producing age, a very low estimate, and that the productive power of these would average only $500 a year if they were well again a low estimate. We have thus a loss of $125,000,000 a year in the productive power of this state. Add to this the loss of the time of those who care for the sick and the loss through reduced efficiency of those who have been sick, even after they are counted as well, and to these add the loss through the low rate of efficiency of the hundreds of thousands who have not been fully developed physically and are therefore lacking in strength, hardihood, and control of body, and the $125,000,000 may well be doubled. A loss too large is this for a state like Alabama to continue to bear, if it can be avoided."

Add still further to this the actual money spent in physicians' bills, drugs, nursing expenses, and funerals, and we realize the tremendous economic cost of the lack of physical efficiency. Poor health is one of the most extravagant luxuries in which humans can indulge and very few individuals or communities can afford to "enjoy" it.

But economic cost is not all. We have yet to consider its mental and moral effects. Physical inefficiency narrows a man's mental horizon, forces him to live a smaller life, makes him distrust himself and suspect others, breeds pessimism, lack of confidence, unprogressive attitudes of mind. It makes a man morbid, upsets his moral standards, often pushes him into crime. Last and among the greatest of the many evil effects of sickness, invalidism, and death are the inroads made upon human happiness. No one better than the invalid knows the eternal internal struggle with self to get away from self, the constant effort when objective contacts are cut off, to prevent the mind's turning in upon itself and becoming morbidly subjective. The world is not made for invalids. The constant misfit, the constant necessity of being misunderstood by well people who cannot understand, make the life of the invalid most trying. But the suffering and unhappiness do not stop with the sick or the dying. It affects all who come into contact with them. No man can live unto himself alone. The world must weep with those who weep and grief is shared by all.

Miss Olive Gray of the state department has well summarized the effects of poor health upon the

FRIENDSHIP VETERANS HOLD ANNUAL MEET

M. R. Norris Heads Organization for Coming Year

HAS 125 MEMBERS

Two of the Members Who Served as Torch Bearers Since 1865 Among Those Elected.

The Friendship Veteran Fire Association at their annual meeting at the company's house on South Alfred street last night elected these officers to serve for the year: M. R. Norris, president; J. Sid Douglas, vice president; J. H. Mansfield, recording secretary; A. R. Fair, financial secretary; J. H. Trimyer treasurer; A. D. Brockett, N. B. Jenkins, R. F. Downham, trustees; W. H. Humphries, Sr, J. Hammersley, Henry Carson and H. Friedlander, committee on appropriations.

W. H. Humphries Sr., one of the oldest members of the company, who has been identified with the company since 1865, was chosen chairman of the committee on appropriations which position he has held for a number of years.

J. H. Mansfield, another veteran member of the company, who also joined in 1865, was re-elected recording secretary which office he has held for many years. Both Mr. Humphries and Mr. Mansfield served as torch bearers when the old Friendship was in active service.

The company's house it is announced is open from 9 a. m., to 12 m., and from 1 to 5 p. m. No admission is charged and the public is invited to visit the house.

This association now has on its roster 125 members. A uniform was adopted by the company last night.

The Salvation Army

Monthly report of work in Alexandria: Beds furnished, 79; meals furnished 158; shoes furnished, 15 pair; garments furnished, 32; transportation, 15 men to Washington, D. C.; three men to Baltimore, Md.; one man to Philadelphia, Pa.; work found for man and wife on farm.

Captain McIntyre will place his Christmas kettles on King street Friday December 9th, and asks that Alexandria will keep the pots boiling till Christmas. Your chance to help to brighten the corner where some poor and needy man, woman or child are. Then again it will help you not to forget the doughnut girls and to remember the Salvation Army.

So help us keep the pots boiling, so they will boil out 100 Christmas baskets, shoes, clothing, candy and toys for the children. Thank you. Captain McIntyre.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scouts will hold a meeting tomorrow evening at St. Paul's Parish Hall. Capt. Jones requests that every one wear middies and skirts. All will receive pins for passing "Tenderfoot Test." The secret pass word will also be given. The meeting will begin at 3:30 p. m. Don't you want to be a full pledged Scout and know all the secrets of scouting. If so you are requested to be present at this meeting even if you have not passed your "Tenderfoot Test."

Kiwanians Hear Talk on Education

An interesting address on education in connection with the observance of national education week was delivered this afternoon by Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, pastor of the M. E. Church South, before the Kiwanis Club at the weekly luncheon of that ciub held in the Westminster building Col. J. Y. Williams presided. The affair was largely attended.

R. L. Payne Visiting Here

Robert L. Payne, formerly of this city but now of Raleigh, N C., is on a short visit to friends in this city. Recently Mr. Payne has been transferred from the management of the offices of the American Fertilizer and Chemical Company in Norfolk to Raleigh, N. C. Mr. Payne for a number of years was actively identified with civic affairs while here.

Roanoke.—Quite a number of Roanoke church-goers are preparing to visit Norfolk during the next few weeks to hear Gypsy Smith, the noted evangelist, who is conducting a series of meetings in that city. Gypsy Smith is using the tabernacle that was used by Billy Sunday in Norfolk two years ago.

Parent-Teachers Association Have Short Talks Tomorrow

At the meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 in the Lee School Building, in keeping with Education Week, business will be dispensed with and 10 minute talks on schoolwork will be given by Dr. Martin, Mrs. Lockwood, State Director of the Federation of Women's Clubs and a 5 minute talk by Miss Cummings. It is urged that all members as well as patrons will be present as the meeting will be kept within the hour. Let's see how many want better schools and will work for them.

Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States

Russell Mitchell Post No. 609, V. F. W., will hold a special meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in order to let those who have made application be admitted to the secret realm of "No Man's Land."

There are 32 of your buddies scattered over this old burg, so make a great effort to come around at 8 p. m. We will not detain you long. Don't let Old Father Time catch you lagging behind.

Come out all of you, that are already members and give these boys their share of the fun.

Remember tonight at 8 o'clock.

Final Rehearsal

Local Actors To Be Ready For Great Night Friday Night

A final dress rehearsal will be held tonight by the Columbian Players before making their debuts on the vaudeville stage tomorrow night in the Lyceum. It has been stated that these players have some fine acts which are to be staged by some actors and actresses of very fine talent. It is expected that a crowd will witness the first performance judging from the large number of tickets disposed of. The doors will be opened at 7:30 o'clock and the show will begin promptly at 8:15 tomorrow night.

Entertainment Tonight

Second Of Educational Entertainments Will Be Given By Native Swiss Family

The second of a series of eductioanl entertainments will be given tonight in the Young Peoples' Building under the auspices of the Womens' Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church. The entertainment tonight will be given by a native family of Swiss Yoedelers. Not only will this family sing the Swiss songs in the manner that has made them so famous, but they will also dance the Swiss Folk dances in the quaint old fashion of their country. All who have ever seen these Yoedelers will be sure to see them again, and those who have never seen them owe it to themselves as a part of their education, to see this wonderful troupe tonight.

Man's Store Big Sale

The Man's Store, situated at 900 King street, is having a 10 days' Christmas shoppers saving sale. The Gazette published a double page ad in Monday evening's edition calling the public's attention to the remarkable values offered to the buying public. This sale coming as it does just before Xmas is an opportunity few can afford to miss as it makes it possible for those who intend to present gifts to make a little money buy more and better articles. The store is beautifully decorated and the several attractive booths help to assist in making suitable selections. It is worth your time to pay a visit to The Man's Store. Mr. Gerber, the proprietor, is giving a beautiful and good sized auto away free of charge to the most popular boy or girl. Anyone may enter the contest. With every penny purchase one vote is given. The larger the purchase the more votes are given. Here is a golden chance for some enterprising boy or girl to get out and hustle among their friends and win a fine Christmas present.

The contest closes Saturday, December 17. Mr. Gerber is surely a live wire. The Gazette wishes him a very successful sale.

Norfolk.—Immediate steps will be taken by the committee investigating the cost of food in Norfolk to put into shape its proposed ordinance to regulate the price of foodstuffs as sold in the city market. A conference with City Manager Ashburner and City Attorney Peatross will be sought by the committee this week.

Richmond.—Following indistinct wagon tracks two miles through Spotsylvania county roads near Partlow, after capturing thirteen mash boxes containing 6,000 gallons of mash. Federal prohibition agents Saturday found the still that had been removed from the still site buried in honeysuckle vines. The still was of 400 gallon capacity. In the honeysuckle vines were axes, hoes, tubs and buckets. No arrests were made. The mash boxes were made with one end open so that they joined each other in a long line. The mash was poured out and the boxes cut to pieces.

ACCEPTANCE OF NAVAL RATIO THOUGHT SURE

Japan Requires U. S. to Stop Fortifying Pacific Bases

ENVOYS JUBILANT

Congress Likely to Look Closely Into Question of U. S. Sacrifices of Fortifications

Official announcement that Japan has agreed to the American naval ratio is expected at any moment.

Conference circles last night accepted this as an absolute certainty. Officially it was declared in Japanese, British and American delegaton circles that there has been no change in the situation. However, there was an air of jubilation in American circles that indicated that the uncertainty has passed. Japanese officials continued bland and imperturbable. They insisted that they were waiting for advices from Tokyo. No statement was possible, they insisted, until these messages came.

However, it was considered certan that the Japanese already had been informally notified that the cabinet and the diplomatic advisory conference, which met in Tokyo on Tuesday, had directly authorized Admiral Baron Togo to accept the United States naval ratio on capital ships of 10—10—6, to be conditioned on the United States announcing that it would not add to its fortified bases in the Pacific and that the proposed transformation of Guam in to an impregnable stronghold would not take place.

Until complete information of the cabinet position is received, however, the Japanese will have nothing official to say.

Just what other conditions accompany the tender is not yet known. Secretary of State Hughes positively has declined to enlighten the public on the offer that be laid before Admiral Baron Kato last Friday night. Tokyo and London have said that a new pact will be proposed to replace the Anglo-Japanese treaty and to provide for the entente cordiale in the Pacific. These dispatches have hinted that France might be a party to the agreement. But, so far as an official American statement on the subject is concerned, there has been no information made public that would even indicate that the subject has been under discussion.

British conference circles last night said that there would be such a pact. It was emphasized that it would not be a treaty and that it would not have to be submitted to the Senate for ratification. In general terms it was described as a "gentleman's agreement" that would be proclaimed by each of the nations affected by it and would depend for enforcement on the moral conscience of the various peoples. Or, as one diplomat described it: "It will prove among nations what always has been considered true among gentlemen, that an honorable man's word is as good as his bond."

However, there was very decided interest felt in just what is to be done to assuage the Japanese spirit disgruntled because of the suggestion that their nation has been forced to agree to a compact that places her in the position of an interior nation—interior in naval strength not alone to her ally, Great Britain, but to the United States.

Japanese who would discuss the general outline of the case, pointed out that if the United States would agree that it would hereafter fail to forify any possessions lying nearer to Japan than to the west coast of America, and that it would stop fortifying Guam and Corregidor, then the Japanese government would be able to tell its people that in assuming an inferior position among the naval powers of the world its own great interests would be so sageguarded that in reality its sacrifice was compensated very fully. In this connection it was pointed out with Guam fortified and the necessity arisen for its capture, it would take a fleet of capital ships to reduce the defenses. The experiences at Gallipoli proved this in every way.

As for the details of the suggested Pacific agreement there was no information forthcoming. The Japanese officials stated that they had been asked not to discuss the matter until an official statement had been made by the United States. They indicated that they felt certain that such an agreement, when fully evolved, will not only be an efficient substitute for the Anglo-Japanese treaty but that it will insure an unbroken relationship between the three leading powers of the world for many years to come. In effect they believe it will provide for protection of all interests in the Pacific.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

We read with much interest in the Gazette's news columns yesterday that a noted healer would take part in the special services of prayer at St. Paul's Episcopal Church next Monday and Tuesday. Now and then there appear among us those divinely gifted with that faith of which Christ speaks. We have always believed devoutly that by Faith we could move mountains! But most of us are those of little faith, and deserve the reproach of the Master! The age of miracles has not come among us again; it has been with us always. Miss Perry is one of those whose own marvelous experience is such that she has the faith and inspires the faith in others. It is a boon and a blessing to have such an one of the elect among us.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church is one of our ancient and venerated institutions. We note that in the wisdom of its Vestry it has decided to become a Free Church, and as a visible token, the heavy stone and iron fence in front of the church will be at once removed. This is in line with other Virginia churches and the Vestry are to be congratulated on this liberal and progressive measure.

In an editorial not long since, in the Gazette, we spoke of the marvelous inventions, the secrets of which lie buried in the government archives. One of these has just come to light. Thomas Edison, junior, just before the close of the war, perfected a new offensive weapon in the shape of a steel shell in the form of a wheel, standing about three feet high and six inches wide. Around the edge was a steel rim. This was to be filled with TNT, or some similar high explosive, and a time fuse to regulate the discharge. This wheel thus charged, was set on a shaft, attached to a tractor very highly geared. When the speed developed to 35,000 surface feet per second, the wheel was automatically released, and sped on with the velocity of a bullet. It would go several miles cutting through everything in its path like a knife. It ate its way through thick walls, whizzed through 150 feet of barbed wire entanglement like so much mere cobweb—and exploded at the time set, leveling everything around it within 150 feet. These wheels were designed for the German trenches, and would have revolutionized trench warfare. We are almost converted to the belief that if the war had continued six months longer the American inventions would have rendered it so terrible and disastrous that warfare would have ended at its close. We make the prediction now and here that if another war occurs before the United States has lost its stride, acquired in 1918, that it will be a short war and the last war for centuries if not forever.

If we in Alexandria could be transported to Russia over night and spend just a day among the starving peoples of the region bordering the Volga River, most of us would return with prayer in our hearts and thanksgiving on our lips for our fortunate lot in a land blessed by the Almighty! Here is one account out of thousands just as pitiful.

"At Tsaritsin I tried to pick my way through a maze of human beings lying on the cobblestones, furniture, sewing machines, spinning wheels, bundles of clothing and babies, when suddenly I came upon a boy stretched on the bare flagstones. He was dying, and as his breath came in little, hoarse gasps, his mother, blinded by tears, was taking the ragged clothing from him, very gently, to cover a half-naked little girl, shivering from ague. Through the crowd tottered a great gaunt figure of a man, with feet swollen to shapeless masses, and the pallor of cholera on his shrunken face. And over on a step of the station a man sat, a boy of two years tugging at his father's torn coat, and a baby of four months awkwardly stretched crosswise of the man's knees, sucking at a bit of watermelon rind. The mother lay under a comforter that had been mercifully pulled up over her face to hide her staring, unclosed eyes!"

We do not think it necessary to take the trip to Russia, after all. The papers are full of the wretchedness and want and woe in the Near East, and we are doing our little bit here in Alexandria to alleviate a situation beyond the power of words to describe. Have you, too, done your part, who read these lines? Think it over, and see!

various phases of living. This is what she says:

"There is a close correlation between the degree of physical efficiency and the degree of vocational efficiency; the state of health constantly affects the satisfactoriness of the home membership; under-nourished or nervously unstable citizens are unreliable in civic affairs in a democratic civilization; lack of physical robustness and poise debars from many of the most wholesome types of leisure enjoyment and increases inclination to physical or mental dissipations of unwholesome types; morality is inextricably bound up with physical soundness or unsoundness." Incidentally, progress in school subjects has been proven to be most dependent upon physical condition and well-being.

But economic and other results of poor health have always been with us, grief and suffering have ever accompanied disease, why worry now? For this reason: we are learning that most of it is unnecessary and easily preventable. A feel of responsibility for the situation is creeping in, it is the prick of conscience that disturbs us. There was a time when he felt no responsibility whatever for disease or physical inefficiency. That belonged to the Lord. For a long time we have known that to kill a man with a pistol is murder, to kill him by avoidable accidents we have come to consider is criminal neglect, and now we are beginning, but barely beginning, to feel guilty when we kill him with disease.

These then, to summarize, are the conditions that have forced the question of physical welfare to the front: the unfitness of our boys, the large percentage of defective children in the schools, the large amount of sickness among our people, economic waste, loss in productive power, unreliable citizenship, social unrest, crime, suffering and unhappiness, and finally the knowledge that these conditions can be prevented. The next question is, What can be done about it, what is the remedy?

Education of Public Sentiment Necessary. One of the first things that needs to be done about it is the education of public sentiment. To quote Miss Gray again:

"Most effort to eradicate disease or to provide for increased physical efficiency is hampered by public indifference, by prejudiced antagonisms and by health superstitions. Indifference, prejudice, and superstition will gradually give way if the children in the schools are supplied with enough facts about the importance of the combat with disease, and with enough facts that contradict the popular prejudices and superstitions."

Among other defects in public sentiment, as it now exists, some of our ideals are wrong. We are not always fully appreciative of physical excellence. There are times when we are rather proud of the opposite. Two ideals particularly we need to get rid of. One is the more or less prevalent feeling that there is virtue in martyrdom. Overwork at college is considered rather a compliment and it is often with no little pride that a parent announces the broken health of a son or daughter due to overstudy. Communities often eulogize their dead by saying that they killed themselves with overwork. This ideal is false. Suicide is suicide and a man has no right to kill or incapacitate himself for no better reason than that he wishes to get more work done or to seem to himself virtuous. Another false ideal is that with reference to the health of women. We expect a man to be strong and to glory in the strength of his manhood, but we rather expect women to be delicate. I am not sure but that we prefer them a little undersize and under developed. To be "as strong as an ox," muscularly developed, and craving muscular exercise savors a bit, according to our false ideal, of mannishness, or coarseness. We prefer daintiness. It seems more womanly to be weak and helpless. Some men even have the stereotyped reply when questioned about the haelth of their wives or daughters, "about as well as usual, thank you." They do not expect them to be well, and the wives and girls do not expect to be well. This is all wrong. We need to believe in health for our women and to desire it, and to expect it. Our girls and women need to take pride in being well and strong rather than to boast of their own weakness and lack of development.

Each individual, whether man or woman, needs to assume definitely the responsibility for his own health. We should come to feel that we have no right to be sick. Anybody should be ashamed to have nervous prostration at forty or to age before his time. A wife should be ashamed to age before her husband, and the husband should be ashamed to have her do it.

We further need to educate public sentiment up to a higher ideal of what community health ought to be and a feeling of definite responsibility for that. We must come to feel ashamed of flies, mosquitoes, spitting in public places, sickness, and disease, as we

That's the way to actually and definitely know. When it comes to bread—the important feature of daily diet—probe into the details and know of WHAT it is made and HOW it is made—and then you will see why it is that is so superior.

You'll find that every ingredient used passes rigid scientific censorship. A standard has been established—and is faithfully adhered to.

You'll find that the doughs are mixed with the Corby patented process—which of itself insures the greatest amount of gluten developed from the flour.

You'll find the baking done under scientific guidance—to the end that the crust is crisp and brown; and the interior texture smooth and velvety.

are of bedbugs and lice. Epidemics of children's diseases must come to be a disgrace. We must take the same pride in being a flyless community as in having good buildings or streets or roads.

Then, we need to develop a more sensitive health conscience. We must feel the duty of the thing, the criminality of neglect, the pain of the conscience prick. At present we are not only not disturbed by such matters, we are often not even conscious of the unhealthful things we do. Often it does not even occur to us that we are exposing some one else.

Dissemination of Knowledge of Means of Prevention. In addition to educating public sentiment we must disseminate among the people reliable information concerning the prevention of disease and of physical incapacity. Intense ignorance of the laws of health and of means of promoting physical efficiency prevails everywhere. It is this ignorance that makes our people the victims of patent medicine exploitation and of their own false notions as well—ideas, for instance, that night air is injurious, that boils are healthful, that having little children rise at four o'clock in the morning in the country will make them healthy. Knowledge of physiology will not serve the purpose.

Health Habits. Public sentiment and knowledge alone will not suffice. Many of us know better than we do. Much depends upon the establishment of health habits, and this must be done in early childhood before wrong habits and physical tendencies have begun to do their undermining work.

Responsibility of the Schools in the Matter. In the matter of health the schools are guilty of sins of commission as well as sins of omission. They have possibly done as much positive harm, contributed as much toward the breaking down of the public health as any other single agency. The indictment against us includes eye strain, from improper lighting; nearsightedness from fine work; poisoning from poor ventilation; nerve exhaustion from eye-strain, long hours, from lack of mental relaxation, lack of physical relaxation, lack of wholesome fun and play, from night work, and from over-heated and underheated rooms. Other indictments are discouragement of the habit of drinking water, discouragement of going to toilet; improper posture with attendant ills of chest and abdominal contraction and spinal curvature; poor circulation from hanging feet; to say nothing of the dissemination of children's diseases. Our schools have at times been almost distributing centers of disease, while we salve our consciences with ideas that diseases do not hurt children, that they had better have them while they are small, etc., etc.

On the omission side we have neglected physical education, we have made no provision for physical activity in the school room, we have failed to encourage play and wholesome recreation, we have failed to provide proper working conditions, we have neglected to provide plenty of good drinking water and individual drinking cups, to provide bathing facilities and individual towels, and have taken very few precautions for the prevention of diseases. Most of all, we have assumed no responsibility for the health habits of the children, we have not taught them specifically how to prevent disease and protect themselves in the concrete situations in which they daily find themselves, and we have not built up through the schools the necessary health sentiment among our people or developed a sensitive health conscience. All of these, health habits, health information, health public sentiment, and a health conscience must be accomplished in the elementary schools, for the simple reason that the majority of our citizens, and it is this majority who rule, do not, and for some years to come will not, go beyond the elementary school.

The Part of Primary Teachers in the Better Health Program. What can we do? How can we help? What are our responsibilities in the matter?

1. We can back the reconstruction health program to the best of our ability and judgment, whether we endorse everything in it or not; we can stand for health.
2. We can be willing to come down from our perches, lay aside fastidiousness, and teach the simple, plain, elemental facts of cleanliness and everyday living that our people need.
3. We can insist upon proper lighting, heating, ventilating conditions, upon proper desks for our children, and can be willing to make any adjustments that will protect the children.
4. We can omit much fine work for small children and introduce physical activity into our school work, can provide mental relaxation in school, play outdoor games with our children and make them love them, have fountains or individual drinking cups and individual towels.
5. We can establish health habits with reference to cleanliness, drinking water, toilet regularity, eating, sleeping, ventilating, coughing, sneezing, putting things in the mouth, rubbing eyes, sitting and walking posture, and we can do it without making the children morbidly afraid of diseases or unduly centering their thoughts upon themselves.
6. We can, through simple daily inspections, keep close watch upon the health of our children, taking any measures necessary to prevent the spread of disease.
7. We can make a simple annual examination, call attention of parents to eye, ear, throat, or other manifest defects and stimulate interest in having those defects attended to.
8. We can build up health sentiment among the little folk through daily inspections, habits, health programs, health clubs, health banners, etc.

Now is the time to select your

The Graceful Woman

"I am fully convinced that there is no necessity of the fallen arches and the weak feet that so deform many women of the present time," says Louis Chalif, exponent of the classical dance.

"In the last few years, since young women have taken to classical dancing, their feet have improved greatly; and also since women have taken to walking, golfing, tennis and other sports the improvement has been marked. The result is that a woman may wear her sport shoe, her walking shoe and her evening shoe all with equal comfort and that is because she has developed a strong foot.

"The woman who sits the greater part of the day does not develop the muscles of the feet and so she has not the fallen arch, but the weak feet. The woman who is almost constantly on her feet has not developed sufficient strength to support the weight of her body, so she has a 'fallen arch.' Immediately she resorts to artificial supports. Ill-fitting shoes contribute to the muscular mal-conditions of the feet, for the nerves of the foot are cramped and the free circulation of blood interferred with.

"We need, and we need badly, pleasing methods of exercising the feet. The best exercise that can be had for the feet is the classic dancing, because I have seen hundreds of poor, weak feet rejuvenated through this exercise."

The foot strength and comfort which are essential to the graceful woman—and to every woman's happiness!—are obtained by wearing Cantilever Shoes, whose flexible arches (not stiff as in ordinary shoes) permit the muscles to exercise freely while walking. Shaped like the foot, there is no pressure on the nerves, no restriction of the circulation. The flexible arch supports a weak foot while natural exercise is strengthening it.

You walk gracefully in Cantilever Shoes. You feel well and you look well. The style is correct for semi-dress and daytime wear.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Mail For Santa Claus

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little boy five years old, and I am sick in bed now and I would like for you to bring me these things: Rain coat, hat, umbrella, pair boots, pair of shoes, monkey, a string drum and also please put a knife on my tree. Santa please don't forget my little cousins, Mary and Thomas Simpson. Well Santa this is all I want. Your little friend, Charles Joseph Beach, 422 Queen street.

Dear Santa Claus:—Please bring me an automobile, wagon, overcoat air rifle and Indian suit, bow and arrow. I will be a good boy, and don't forget to bring little Marion Hantzmon a gocart, raincoat, dishes, and tricycle. Kenneth Robey 312 South Washington Street.
P. S.—I am five years old and Marion is the same age.

Dear Santa Claus:—As I have no sister or brother for you to bring toy to, I request that you please bring me three things. I hope that you don't think that I am asking too much. I want a carriage, stove and dishes. They can be obtained at Knight's. The price of them is $10 for carriage, stove, $5.50 and the dishes, $4.50. Blanch Covington, 602 King street, second floor.
P. S. Mother will leave the door open.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little girl seven years old and am in the second grade. Have been a good girl all the year. Please bring me a doll and set of books and I want a doll house. I have two little sisters and please bring them some presents, and don't forget little brother. Wishing you a merry Christmas, I am your friend, Marion E. Moncure, 123 South Royal street.

Dear Santa Claus:—I am a little girl will be five next January and have been real good, so I am asking you if you will not please bring me what I ask for. I would like to have a great big doll just like Mr. Knight has in his window and also a china closet, table, chairs, set of dishes and a trunk to put my doll's clothes in. Now, please don't forget your little girl, baby, Virginia Herring 317 South Columbus street.

To Santa Claus, North Pole:
Dear Santa Claus: I have been a very good boy this year and expect the following things: A fire engine, some games, a drum, tool box, foot ball and uniform. Don't forget dad and mother as I heard dad say, "He hoped Santa would not forget him this year. Hoping your deer won't slip, I remain, Your sincere friend, Joseph R. Bayliss, 1011 Queen St.

Dear Santa: I want a sewing basket, a dress, a rain cape, bracelet pair of rubbers and some ribbon. I am nine years old. Virginia Robey, 312 South Washington street.

Dear Santa Claus:—I am a little girl seven years old, and am in the first grade in school. Mother says you can bring me a doll, sewing machine and set of dishes. I have two sisters and a brother. My sisters want a doll, a pair of shoes and a set of dishes. I want a doll that can open and shut her eyes. Brother wants a horse with hand car. Now don't forget me Santa please. Good bye. Jesse Thomas, North Patrick street.

No weather can cripple this good gasoline

STORMY weather is closed car weather; but motoring continues to be a pleasure even in winter when you once find the right gasoline.

The motor starts promptly because the right gasoline is balanced. It vaporizes readily, even in cold weather. The rate of combustion is correct — assurance of maximum power. Its completeness of combustion keeps carbon accumulation at a minimum. The lean mixture on which the motor operates makes its requirements per mile comparatively small. So balanced gasoline is also economical, big-mileage gasoline.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is carefully balanced gasoline—so accurately balanced that it equals or excels all other motor gasolines in every desirable property a motor fuel should possess.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline will give as much power, measured either on a dynamometer, or in the speed of a car, as any gasoline made. It will start easily, idle smoothly, leave little carbon, and give great mileage.

Work with your car, not against it. Fill your tank with this powerful "Standard" Motor Gasoline and give your crankcase a fresh filling with Polarine, the best lubricating oil made.
